When you get to feeling over-run,
over-aerobicized, and just generally over-tired, regard lovely Gea Johnson.

Only eighteen years old, Gea has already won a gold medal in international competition for track. As a junior in high school, she won the nation's highest score in the heptathlon—and has been Arizona's heptathlon champ for two years in a row. (For those who feel overburdened by their one-mile spin around the lake, we should mention that the heptathlon combines expertise in the 100 yard dash, high hurdles, 200 yard dash, 800 meter run, javelin throw, shot put, long jump and high jump!)

Yeah—but does she have a brain in her head? From all appearances, it looks like she has several. She's president of her senior class and a member of the National Honor Society. Her four year high school average? What else—a perfect 4.0
